Let's go to the recycling bin for this one. Fine a bunch of items that have been set aside to be recycled that you no longer need. Let's look at them again...

What was their original use?
How could they be reused differently?

Can you make something useful out of them?

Can you combine them together to make art?

Can you combine them together to make a funny robot or alien like sculpture?

There is a form of art called Assemblage.

It is basically collage but three dimensional. Assemblage involves gluing together found objects to create a new object or piece of art. Let's see what new and fun art you can create with recycled items.
